August 4, 2020

CONVERGE-NSF Award #1841338 | DesignSafe-NSF Award #1520817 | RAPID-NSF Award #1611820

Welcome!

We are so excited you are here!

Noon-12:15 p.m. MDT

A Two-Year Journey....

The DesignSafe team interviews ~80 social science, urban planning, public health and medicine, and engineering researchers at the Natural Hazards Workshop. July 2019

L-R: Maria, Tim, and Craig put the social science and interdisciplinary "data modelers" to work! October 2018

CONVERGE and DesignSafe partnership formally established in August 2018.

Objectives Today

- Learn about new DesignSafe capabilities for the social sciences and interdisciplinary research
- Understand why publishing and sharing data and instruments is important
- Learn how to ethically publish your own data and instruments
- Move forward with receiving a permanent DOI for your data and/or instruments
- Become a CONVERGE Data Ambassador!

"For the past three decades, leaders of the scientific community have called for sharing access to scientific data... The main rationales for data sharing, [include]:

- To reproduce or to verify research
- To make the results of publicly funded research available to the public
- To enable others to ask new questions of extant data
- To advance the state of research and innovation

Increasingly, funding agencies around the world are requiring investigators to share data created with public support."

Read this webpage on preparing a Data Management Plan carefully: https://converse.colorado.edu/data/data-management . This page includes several tips and insights that will help you to prepare your data for publication.
Complete the data template in advance of the Publish Your Data! event.
 Prepare your own data, data collection protocols/reports, and/or research instruments and ensure they are ready for curation during or following the event. These materials will help ensure a comprehensive data publication that can be used and analyzed by future researchers or research teams. If your data involves human subjects, you must provide documentation of your institution's IRB approval. All human subjects data should be property de-identified based on ethical best practices, institutional requirements, and any other commitments to participants.
Carefully review the DesignSafe data curation guidelines (click on the Field Research tab) (https://www.designsafe-ci.org/w/user-mides/data-curation-publication), RAPID website (https://moid/esignsafe-ci.org), and CONVERCE website (https://converge.colorado.edu) before the meeting so you can familiarize yourself with the research teams, missions, and resources available from these NSF- supported facilities.
If you have not done so already, all participants should register for a DesignSafe account in advance of the event: https://www.designsafe-ci.org/account/register/
If you have not done so already, all participants should register for a DesignSafe account in advance of the event: https://www.designsafe-ci.org/account/register/
Attend the Publish Your Data! event on August 4 or August 27, 2020.
